

The Mid-Facelift

These days, plastic surgery has become almost as common as a trip to the dentist. When jaw lines start to droop and folds around the nose and mouth become more pronounced, a trip to the dentist may in fact be needed. California cosmetic dentist Dr. Bruce Hartley of the Peninsula Center of Cosmetic Surgery presents the Dental Mid-Facelift, a cosmetic procedure designed to rebuild patients' smiles. New teeth not only look white and beautiful, but also support the jaw and restore proper face dimensions. With this support, "the deep mid-face creases and lines disappear, taking 10 years of aging with them." For more, please visit www.pccd.net.
