

HairMax miracle hair growth comb event at Bruno Jamais Restaurant Club

HAIRMAX- a "hair loss treatment in a healthy new light."

We all know the demographics...the baby boomer generation is booming. So while there are countless numbers of products aimed at keeping this segment of the population looking young, very few actually work; hence, the expression, 'hope in a jar.'

Needless to say, when Lexington International LLC launched HAIRMAX LaserComb, a handheld laser device promoting hair growth in males, a collective group of skeptical eyes, probably rolled over with a significant, 'whatever' shrug of the shoulders. But blessed with FDA clearance- based on four separate clinical studies showing an increase in the average number of terminal (thick) hairs-eyes are now glued to the Hairmax LaserComb website (www.hairmax.com), the sole retail outlet for this amazing medical laser instrument that's a cinch to use and only requires a daily 10-15 minute application for results. No wonder the New York introduction party at the exclusive Bruno Jamais restaurant was packed to the gills...with spot on look-alikes demo-ing the products. All ladies and gents suffer from loss of hair as they age (at least where one wants the hair)...and a 21st century brush like product for discreet home usage, sure beats the pain and expense of the antiquated 20th century solution, hair plugs.

Text and photos by J. Ecochard

For more on this event, visit www.kmrpr.com

