

6 Steps To Not Being A Huge Gay By Real Househusband Of NY Simon van Kempen

Season 2 of Bravo's The Real Housewives of NY is right around the corner, and you know what that means... Brooklyn powercouple Alex McCord and Simon van Kempen have a cocktail party to throw! Earlier this week, fans and friends of the couple gathered together for drinks at the Bruno Jamais Resturant Club, and husband Simon found it as good a time as any to show the world just how. fking. much. he. loves. his. wife. by making out with her in front of the guests.

Allow us to take you through this kiss step by step, yes?

Step 1: Gaze lovingly into your lover's eyes. Step 2: Place a gentle heartwarming kiss on each other's lips.

The steps continue ahead.

Step 3: Realize Step 2 made you look a little gay, and show these people that you will literally lay down with her on the floorboards and make sweet public love to her if they want to see it.

Step 4: As it slowly dawns on you that perhaps your cropped peacoat could be misconstrued as a touch femme, reaalllllly make that kiss last, no matter how horrified your party's guests seem to be.

Step 5: 35 minutes later, slowly release your death grip on your poor, frail mistress, as you realize onlookers have grown bored with your tonguacrobaties.

Step 6: And release.

Our reaction can best be described by this patron, featured in Step 4:

